MONDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1744.

Since our laſt arrived a Mail from Flanders.

Leipſick, December 2.

THE Motions made by the Pruſſian Army are ſo extraordinary, that we know not what to think of them; and this it is that occaſions the Preparations made here, for the Defence of Saxony; tho', at the ſame time, we have no Sort of Certainty, either that his Pruſſian Majeſty intends to the Electorate at all, or if he does, on which Side attack it; the chief Reaſons of our Apprehenſions ſe: The Pruſſian Miniſter at the Dyet of Grodno, ven his Majeſty to underſtand, that the King, his would not fail to make the Electorate of Saxony his Diſappointment in Bohemia. The immenſe of Money ſpent to render the Deliberations of the Dyet fruitleſs, is another Proof of the ſame Thing; Conjunction with the preſent Motions of the Pruſſian ſeem to teſtify a Reſolution in that Monorch, to the Auſtrians of his Poliſh Majeſty's Aſſiſtance, cking him in his Hereditary Countries. There is, ver, good Reaſon to believe, that this, like the on Bohemia, will prove abortive; becauſe it certurns upon the Defeat of the Meaſures taken in ; which, after all, is not quite ſo certain, as was imagin'd. The true State of the Matter was this; et would have broke up without coming to any tion, thro' the Diſputes about adjuſting the Taxes; were the Fruits of certain Intrigues, and therewas thought better to lay open thoſe Intrigues, rom a proper Senſe of their own Condition, the fected among the Poliſh Nibility might be led brace, chearfully, and vigorouſly, the only Method which is, that of a general Confederacy; and, in obability, it has by this Time taken Place.

ſaw, December 1. As the French Troops, the Day Yeſterday, not only enter'd this Electorate, but y took Poſſeſſion of ſeveral Places, from which lectoral Highneſs's Troops were forc'd to retire: erene Highneſs, in Conjunction with the Electors logne and Triers, has ſent his Proteſt to the Emand Dyet; and has, moreover, demanded of the of Wurtzbourg, 200 Men to reinforce the Gaof this Capital, which are already in full March hi-

There is an unuſual Harmony among the French rals; M. Coigny accompanied M. Mallebois to Man- in his Way to Worms, and they ſate up all the laſt they were together; from whence we conjecture, this Irruption into Germany has ſomething at the om of it, of much greater Importance than we are to penetrate. In the mean time, the Caſtles of burg are ſurrendered, of which we are told a very Story here. During the Ceſſation of Arms, the h pretended to mine the Fortifications of Fribourg; h, undoubtedly, they had a Right to do, if they ght fit; but inſtead of doing this, it ſeems, they unined one of the Caſtles, and that ſo effectually, that Hoſtilities were on the Point of being re-com-'d, they ſent to General Damnitz, to let him know, if he fired upon the Town, they would infallibly him, his Caſtle, and Gariſon, into the Air; and, e ſame Time, offering to ſhew him the Mine; he, ight of it, determined to ſurrender, with his Gariſon, oners of War. There is another very ſtrange Affair ſpered here, which is, that neither the King of ſſia, nor the Emperor, are perfectly ſatisfied with the duct of France; and to this is attributed the Retreat he former, and the latter's putting his Troops into ter Quarters, and ſending for the Aulick Councel to ich; where, ſome ſay, the King of Pruſſia's Pro- to the Queen of Hungary, for a ſeparate Peace, be laid before that Aſſembly.

Prague, December 8. We have Intelligence here, from emia, that the King of Pruſſia, upon ſeeing Prince rles force a Paſſage over the Elbe, and advance toards the Center of his Cantonment; and, according others, upon learning that Count Palfi, with a conrable Body of Hungarian Inſurgents, threatened an urſion into Sileſia from the Side of Troppau, retired h the utmoſt Precipitation towards Glatz, by the y of Konigingratz, having made one forc'd March 36 Hours. This Retreat, beſides the Loſs of Men Deſertion, Fatigue, and other Diſaſters, inſeparable m a like Motion, has enabled the Auſtrians to make mſelves Maſters of Kolin, Podiebrad, and even, after kirmiſh, in which Count Truchſes, who was forly Miniſter in England, is ſaid to have been mortally wounded, of Pardubitz too. The Pruſſians would have deſtroyed their Magazines in this laſt Place, but the Auſtrians made themſelves Maſters of it time enough to ſave a conſiderable Quantity of Oats. On the 25th paſt, the combined Army is ſaid to have moved forward from Chlumetz towards Konigingratz, in Purſuit of the Pruſſians, who had halted in the Neighbourhood of the latter of theſe Places. Subſequent Advices from the ſame Quarter bring us the News, that the Pruſſians evacuated Prague on the 28th paſt, after having thrown their Artillery and Ammunition into the Elbe. The Gariſon is ſaid to be marching to Leitmeritz, and will probably try, at all Hazards, to regain their own Country. The Defence of the Caſtles of Fribourg has been but very ſhort, it being certain, they were ſurrendered on the 25th paſt, and that the Gariſon are Priſoners of War; but it is not yet agreed, whether by Virtue of a formal Capitulation, or by Way of Reprifals, for the pretended Infractions of the Capitulations of Egra and Braunau, by the Auſtrians.

We learn from Franckfort, that inſtead of 50,000 Men, it is thought the French Troops in Bavaria, the anterior Auſtria, and on the Rhine, amount to more than 70,000; and are diſpoſed in ſuch a Manner, that they may be augmented at Pleaſure; which cannot but give the utmoſt Pain to all who have any Concern for the Liberty of that Country.

They write from Bruſſels, that the Health of her Serene Highneſs is ſtill in a very doubtful State, inaſmuch as ſhe has had ſeveral Relapſes; but that the Phyſicians having chang'd their Manner of proceeding, it was hoped a new Courſe of Medicines would produce a better Effect.

The Charming Molly, Kelly, the Mary, White, the Sally, Cole, the Drake, Archer, the John and Elizabeth, Tatterſhill, all ſailed from Newfoundland the 22d of October, for the Mediterranean, and were ſpoke with about 200 Leagues to the Eaſtward of Newfoundland, by a Ship from New England, arriv'd at Glaſgow.

Upon the Recommendation of the Lords Commiſſioners of the Admiralty, of the gallant Behaviour of Richard Hornby, Maſter of the Ship Wrightſon and Iſabella, of Sunderland, and her Crew; conſiſting of five Men and three Boys, in defending their Ship for ſix Hours, againſt a French Privateer of 10 Carriage Guns, 8 Swivels, and 75 Men, which attack'd them in June laſt, about four Leagues from Graveſand in Holland; and then not only obliged the Privateer to ſheer off, but by a Shot fired into her Stern, blew her up, and all her Crew periſhed: His Majeſty has been graciouſly pleaſed to order a Medal and Chain of 100 l. Value to be given to the ſaid Richard Hornby, and a Bounty of 5 l. to each of the Men, and 40 s. to each Boy, of which his Crew conſiſted; as well to reward their Valour, as to encourage others, under the like Circumſtances, to exert themſelves in the Defence of their Ships, and the Deſtruction of the Enemy.

Several Merchants, &c. are fitting out at George Sraiss, Deptford, a Privateer of 600 Tons, 300 Men, and to mount 40 Carriage Guns, of 18, 12, and 6 Pounders, beſides Swivels. She is called the Hardwicke, and is to be commanded by Capt. James Sampſon.
